

YOUTH IS HELD FOR KIDNAPING STUDENT WIFE

Trail Of Notes Left by Woman Results In Apprehension

Madison, Wis., Apr. 20—(AP)—A 20-year-old youth, Harry Hamilton Drill, son of a St. Paul, Minn., attorney, and two companions were held in jail today awaiting serving of warrants accusing them of kidnaping Drill's co-ed heiress wife, Helen Fisher Drill, 19, in New York. A ruse of the wife led to the arrest of Drill, Harold Caldwell, 20 and Elmer Peterson, 27, also of St. Paul.

The young wife, missing from her New York apartment since last Thursday, said she was forced into an automobile owned by a Columbia University student, transferred to another car and compelled to come west with her husband and his companions.

Along the way she left penciled notes telling her plight. One of them, scrawled on a paper towel in a LaPorte, Ind., filling station, resulted in the arrest of the men.

It read: "Have been kidnapped. Please inform (name withheld by authorities) of Port Richmond, N. Y. Next stop Park hotel, Madison. They sent my clothes there."

Ruse Successful
She left the water running in the washroom so an attendant would be certain to find the note. The message was found and relayed to Sheriff T. P. Finn here. The men were arrested at the Park Hotel. Finn said Caldwell and Peterson confessed complicity in the affair. The husband was evasive and after a long distance telephone call to his father said he would fight extradition.

The brief and periodic matrimonial adventures of the couple have been stormy, according to the girl's story to Finn. A divorce suit is pending between the pair, already remarried after their first marriage secretly in Oct., 1928, was annulled. They were married secretly at Northwood, Iowa, she said and returned to the homes, keeping the marriage secret for nearly a year. Meanwhile, Mrs. Drill said she went to a summer session at the University of Wisconsin and enrolled for the fall session at Carlton College, Northfield, Minn.

Marriage Annulled
The marriage was discovered and because of parental objections the girl said, an annulment resulted. The youth met her on the campus of the Minnesota school and climaxed his protestations of love by shooting himself through the lung. She remarked him, she said, to keep him from shooting himself. Mrs. Drill said she lived with her husband but a short time after their second marriage and then went east to attend the school in New York.

Siamese King And Queen See States
Portal, N. D., Apr. 20—(AP)—Speeding across North Dakota prairies, the King and Queen of Siam got their first glimpse of the United States today.

En route to Washington and New York, King Prajadhipok, first reigning Asiatic monarch to visit this country, and Queen Rambairarn, gazed upon vast stretches of wheat lands, much of it freshly sown with spring crops.

Richard Southgate and Stanley Hornbeck, representing President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson, respectively, extended greetings as their Majesties arrived late last night at this international boundary town from Vancouver, B. C.

The King, who has been suffering from malaria and bronchitis since shortly before disembarking at Vancouver, appeared to be in fairly good health, but the Queen was reported ill with a cold.

The King's train is due in St. Paul today and in Chicago tomorrow.

Funeral Mrs. Jacob Poffenberger Held
The funeral of Mrs. Jacob Poffenberger who passed away at her home west of the city on the Lincoln Highway in Palmyra township at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon was conducted today. Rev. A. Turley Stephenson, pastor of the Methodist church of this city conducted services at the late home this afternoon at 1:30 and interment was made in the Emmert cemetery east of Natchez. Mrs. Poffenberger had been ailing for several months but was stricken critically ill Friday afternoon. The obituary will be published later.

In Mendota Court
(Telegraph Special Service)
Mendota, Apr. 20—LeRoy Gentry of near Compton was assessed a fine of $10 and costs in police court this morning on a charge of assault and battery, the result of a fist fight at Kakusha park last evening about 11 o'clock. Gentry is alleged to have beaten Edward Cox of Amboy following an argument, after which Gentry is said to have left the park, but returned, looking for other victims when he was arrested.

OFFICER KILLED IN BATTLE WITH TRIO OF GUNMEN

Bandits Open Fire On Two Officers With-Out Warning

Marlow, Okla., April 20—(UP)—Three gunmen opened fire on two policemen who sought to question them early today, killed one of the officers, wounded the other, accidentally disabled their automobile with a gunshot, stole a second machine and escaped.

The shooting occurred when Ike Veach, night Chief of Police and R. J. Hill, patrolman, found the gunmen's car parked in front of the home of J. T. Hill, one of the wealthiest men in Marlow.

As the officers approached the gunmen opened fire. Veach fell with wounds in the head, leg and shoulder. R. J. Hill was killed instantly. Veach departed and the killers fled, leaving the car and the revolver wounding one of the men.

As the killers' car sped through the streets, one of the three men, accidentally discharged a shotgun he held. The charge ripped through the manifold of the engine, stopping it. The men jumped out, stopped another car, and forced the occupants, two oil men, to surrender the automobile. Then they dragged their wounded companion into it and fled. The wounded man appeared paralyzed by his injuries, the oil men said.

Window Wrecked By Driverless Auto

The east display window of the W. H. Train jewelry store was almost completely wrecked this morning about 4 o'clock and an automobile belonging to M. H. Needham, 108 Hennepin avenue, was considerably damaged, when the car which had been parked on Hennepin avenue started north, crossed First street, ran over the curb and crashed into the display window of the jewelry store.

The heavy plate glass was shattered and the marble trimming broken into many pieces as the car came to a stop. Members of the police force a short distance away heard the crash and hurried to the store and summoned Mr. Train. The window contained a display of costly cut glass ware but none of this was broken. Mr. Train went to Chicago this afternoon to replace the marble which formed the base for the attractive front to his store.

Father Kills Three Children And Himself

Syracuse, N. Y., April 20—(AP)—The bodies of Webster L. Wainwright, 64, and his three small children, whom he killed before hanging himself, were found early today in his home.

Police were questioning his wife, Mary, 31, and Harry Blanchard, 35, a chauffeur, who were mentioned in notes left by Wainwright.

The notes revealed the children had been poisoned before dawn yesterday. He had also clubbed and hanged two of the children, Rosalind, 11, and Richard, 9. Jacqueline, 4, died of the poisoning.

In a note addressed to the police Wainwright said he decided on the act because his wife had left him and because she had threatened to take the children away. He also addressed letters to two brothers.

Ashton Woman Died Here Sunday Morn

(Telegraph Special Service)
Ashton, Apr. 20—Mrs. Will Quick passed away at the Dixon public hospital Sunday morning where she had been taken to receive treatment for an ailment of long standing. Sarah Leslie was born July 31, 1865 near Lighthouse, north of Ashton and was united in marriage to William Quick of Ashton in 1896, who survives her. Funeral services will be conducted from the residence in this city Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. W. Wilson, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating and with interment in the Ashton cemetery.

$35,000 In Jewelry Taken By Holdups

Chicago, April 20—(UP)—Benjamin Beris, president of the American Glass Company, and Mrs. Beris, were held up last night in the driveway of their $120,000 home and robbed of $35,000 worth of jewelry by two bandits who trailed them home from a loop banquet.

Mrs. Beris lost a bracelet which was set with 2,000 small diamonds and which she valued at $25,000. She also was forced to give up a $10,000 diamond necklace and her engagement ring, which was valued at $800.

REVOLUTION IN HONDURAS OF NO SERIOUS IMPORT

But United States Rushed Warships To the Main Seaports Today

BULLETIN.
Boston, April 20—(AP)—Americans and foreigners of all nationalities were reported in no danger as a result of the Honduran revolt, in an announcement issued today by the United Fruit Company.

Washington, Apr. 20—(AP)—Revolution has burst forth again in Central America, this time in Honduras. Its Nicaraguan difficulties as yet unsettled, the United States today met a new problem on the north coast of Honduras. Revolutionary forces under General Gregorio Ferrera, a former Minister of War, were reported advancing toward the country's four main American lives.

To protect American lives, the United States immediately dispatched three fighting vessels to Honduras. The cruisers Trenton and Marblehead were ordered from Guantanamo, Cuba, base of the scouting fleet, to Trujillo and Puerto Cortez, respectively. Another cruiser—the Memphis—left Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, on a schedule which put her in at La Ceiba, Honduras, at 8 A. M. today.

Trujillo, which has a population of about 4,000, is in almost the exact center of the northern Honduran coast. About 60 miles west is La Ceiba, which boasts of 10,000 inhabitants. Nearly 75 miles further west is Puerto Cortez. About midway between Puerto Cortez and La Ceiba is Tela, where, among other places, forces loyal to President Mejia Cordero were said to have beaten off attacks.

Severe Fighting
A radio dispatch from Tegucigalpa said the Tela assault was repulsed after severe fighting. The number of casualties was not known.

So far the trouble had not spread to Tegucigalpa. It is in the interior and separated from the threatened ports by mountains. It was believed the revolutionists would attempt to obtain control of the ports before advancing on the Capital. United States Minister Julius G. Lay officially reported the uprising had begun on Saturday, insurgents apparently intending to center their initial efforts along the coast.

Although major interest centered on Honduras, the United States continued to watch Nicaragua. The gunboat Asheville moved 60 miles from Cape Gracias a Dios to Puerto Cabezas, taking the post left vacant by the Memphis. Before the Memphis departed, however, she debarked an officer and 13 sailors with machine guns, a force believed sufficient for immediate needs. The aircraft carrier Langley, with her more than 30 airplanes, also was on her way to Puerto Cabezas from Guantanamo.

Americans Evacuated
At Bluefields the cruiser Rochester has taken post. The gunboat Sacramento already was at that port and had thrown ashore a detachment of 31 men. Since activity in the Cape Gracias a Dios area had subsided since the flight of eight American civilians and one Marine officer, and all Americans there were said to have been evacuated, no warship was left in that port.

Instructions to ship commanders in Honduras conformed with the new American policy adopted last week toward Nicaragua. They were to limit their operations to the protection of American lives and property in coast towns, not sending forces inland. A strict neutrality to be maintained.

There appeared, too, some difference in the activities of insurgent forces in the two countries. General Augustino Sandino in Nicaragua has been bitter toward Americans, and men following him were credited with the nine casualties.

By Discontented.
At the Honduran legation the outbreak was described as simply the movement of a group of discontented persons.

The legation still was without official word of the trouble but it was explained it could not be at the instance of the opposing Conservative party because the leader of that party, General Tiburcio Carias, was supporting the liberal regime.

General Ferrera was described as a self-styled independent with a party flag combining the colors of the Liberal and Conservative banners.

Following the arrival of the Memphis at La Ceiba, the Navy Department announced the Trenton, destined for Trukillown and the Marblehead for Puerto Cortez, probably would arrive late today or early tomorrow.

FARMER KILLED UNDER BLADES OF PULVERIZER SAT.

Edward Hanson of Lee Victim Of Tragic Accident

(Telegraph Special Service)
Lee, Apr. 20—Falling from a tractor while discing a field near here, Edward Hansen, 45, was killed Saturday afternoon when his body became caught in the blades of the pulverizer. His son Gordon, 17, who was working on the opposite side of the field, noticed the tractor careening across the field without a driver, and upon investigating, discovered his father's almost lifeless body badly mangled.

An ambulance was summoned and the victim of the accident was rushed to the Waterman hospital, but he died before he could be given medical attention. The accident happened in Lee county but death took place in DeKalb county and Coroner R. P. Culver of DeKalb conducted an inquest Sunday morning at 10:30, the jury returning a verdict of accidental death. Hansen leaves a widow and two sons, Gordon and Wesley who reside on a farm near here.

TIDE MAY AID SALVAGE CREW IN LIFTING SHIP

Seattle House Mover Seeks Million in Gold Nuggets

Seattle (UP)—If ambition counts for anything, several of the 100 major ships wrecked in Alaskan waters, and even the Lusitania may be raised to the surface, with resulting recovery of fortunes.

Frank Curtis, a Seattle house mover has dreams of great enterprises and huge fortunes nowadays, as he prepares to lift the steamship Islander, which sank with heavy loss of life and fortune in Stephens Pass, August 15, 1901.

He has signed a contract with E. H. and H. S. Wiley of Olympia, who already have recovered some gold from the sunken ship, but who hope to move the wreckage into shallow water where it may be investigated more easily.

Curtis declared that after he completes the job, he may lay in a supply of ship salvaging equipment, and go into the business on a large scale, first attacking other wrecks in Alaskan waters, then swinging to other parts of the world.

He plans to let nature help him raise the Islander, in this manner: He will use a diving bell to place cables under the ship, 20 to each side and leading to a barge 45 by 286 feet. Winches will cinch up the cables at low tide, and Curtis figures that the barge will lift the hulk when the tide rises. This operation will be repeated, and the barge will be towed toward shore, until the sunken ship is dragged to shallow water.

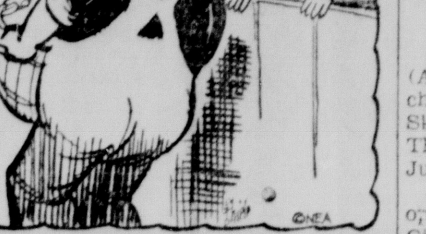

The Islander was believed to have carried more than $1,000,000 in gold dust and nuggets.

OLD MISSISSIPPI LOW
St. Louis—(UP)—The Mississippi river at St. Louis was at one of the lowest average stages from April 1, 1930 to April 1, 1931 in the nearly 100 years of government observation. Navigation was seriously impeded.

RIVER TONNAGE SETS RECORD
St. Louis—(UP)—More tonnage was transported on the Mississippi river last year than in the "hey day" of river transportation half a century ago, statistics reveal.

BODY OF SLAIN GIRL IS FOUND HANGED IN TREE

San Diego Officers Are Without Clues In Un-usual Murder

BULLETIN
San Diego, Calif., April 20—(UP)—Seventeen-year-old Louise Teuber was running away from an unhappy home when, with all her clothing except brassiere and slippers ripped off, she was mysteriously hanged and strangled to death at midnight Saturday on Black Mountain, it is developed today with delivery of a note she had written to her father, a well-to-do barber.

The note, delivered today many hours after her body was found by picknickers suspended from a tree, a double half hitch looped around the neck and the toes of the slippers barely touching the ground, was posted Saturday night. It was made public by the Sheriff's office today and read:

"Dear Dad: I have tried for a long time to be satisfied with the way you are running the house and I can stand it no longer. I am leaving home tonight and I am not coming back."

The letter, sent special delivery, was stamped at the postoffice at 7 P. M. Saturday and had been mailed in San Diego. Five hours later, according to the best information at hand, Louise was hanged to the tree.

San Diego, Cal., Apr. 20—(AP)—The death of comely 17-year-old Louise Teuber and the lack of clues to the slayer, who apparently strangled her and then hanged her nude body to a tree, puzzled police here today.

The body was found by a picnic party yesterday dangling from a high limb of an oak tree in the eastern fringe of the city. Her feet acroped the ground. Police surgeons said the girl had been dead eight hours.

Miss Teuber was a clerk in a five and ten cent store and the daughter of William Teuber, barber shop proprietor. She lived with her father and grandmother. Girls who were her friends at the store said she gave up her job Saturday night and told them she was going away, but refused to say where.

Two Meagre Clues
At the scene of the tragedy police gathered two slim clues. One was the double half hitch knot which bound the rope about the girl's neck. The other was an Army blanket found with the girl's clothes, purse and a pair of hose she had purchased Saturday.

The knot, police said, apparently had been tied by someone familiar with handling rope. They suggested it might have been tied by a sailor, or one who had had a sailor's training. The blanket was closely scrutinized for some mark which might lead police to its owner.

Miss Teuber's body had been stripped of clothing with the exception of black pumps and gun-metal hose. Investigators said there was every evidence that the girl had been dead before the long rope was thrown over the limb and pulled to a stump 20 feet away. He tied. There were no bruises indicating injuries which might have caused death or even unconsciousness.

An autopsy was ordered to determine whether Miss Teuber had been assaulted.

Orpheum Theater In Chicago Is Held Up

Chicago, April 20—(UP)—The hold-up scene in the moving picture about Al Capone was re-enacted today in the Orpheum, the loop theatre where the talkie is being presented, when three men got $1,900 and escaped.

The bandits threatened B. Anderson, assistant business manager, with pistols in the basement office of the theatre, but he defied them by refusing to open the safe, and was tied up while the robbers worked the combination unaided.

They escaped through loop crowds before Harry Green, doorman, knew what had happened. Green freed Anderson and they found $1,800 was gone from the safe and $100 from a drawer. The current picture at the theatre, "Little Caesar," thinly disguised to show Capone's rise and predict his fall, is the only crime talkie in the loop.

Expect Burke Will Enter Guilty Plea

Benton Harbor, Mich., Apr. 20—(AP)—Trial of Fred Burke on a charge of slaying Patrolman Charles Skelly will be delayed at least until Thursday by the illness of Circuit Judge Charles E. White.

Judge White, who was to have opened the April term of the Berien Circuit Court today, is confined to his home in Niles with a throat infection. Members of his family said he will be unable to come here for the next three days.

AMBOY WOMAN CAUSES ARREST OF HER HUBBY

Charles Skinner Being Held On Two Charges Filed By Her

Charles Skinner of Amboy was arrested at his home in that city late Saturday afternoon, following a raid conducted by Sheriff Fred Richardson and two deputies. A quantity of home brew, some of which the officers found packed in ice, was destroyed after samples were taken to be used as evidence. Skinner was brought to Dixon and placed in the county jail on two charges, one of assault and battery, and another charging possession and sale of intoxicating liquor, which were both preferred by his wife, Mrs. Lulu Skinner, before Justice Grover Gehant Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Skinner charged that her husband had been selling home brew for some time and Saturday domestic entanglements led to the complaint to Sheriff Richardson. Skinner is alleged to have struck and choked his wife in the presence of two friends at their home and then to have broken her glasses. When he is said to have threatened her with a butcher knife. Mrs. Skinner mounted a dining room table and wielded a heavy water pitcher with accurate aim, striking Skinner on the head and rendering him unconscious, whereupon his two friends left hastily. Mrs. Skinner taking her small son, came to Dixon and swore out the warrants which led to her husband's arrest. Informations were to be filed in the county court this afternoon by State's Attorney Mark Keller.

Plan Celebration "New Chicago Week"
Chicago, April 20—(UP)—Civic, business, and professional organizations—in fact, the whole city—joined today in rushing preparations for "New Chicago Week," a jubilee by which leaders in all walks of life will seek May 11 to 16 to "prove to the world" that the city has been "reborn."

That the jubilee will assume international proportions was predicted by Attorney Silas W. Strawn of the Revenue Relief committee, who will go to Washington to extend invitations to representatives of 46 nations who will attend the International Chamber of Commerce convention May 4 to 9.

Strawn said he already had received tentative promises that Sir Arthur Balfour of England, M. Robert Masson of Paris, and Prince Nobuhito Takamatsu of Japan will attend.

From Florida, where Mayor Anton J. Cermak is on vacation, came word from the new executive that he heartily favors the celebration and considers it a "natural jubilee" in view of many changes, political and otherwise, which have transpired within the city in recent weeks.

The idea of the jubilee, as the celebration has been named officially, is to present "Chicago's true self" to the world, to prove to other nations that they want to come here to participate in the World's Fair of 1933. Col. Robert Isham Randolph of the Association of Commerce explained, "The response has been terrific."

He said, despite the fact that actual plans for the jubilee were started only two days ago.

Boiling Lye Water Poured On Sleepers

New York, April 20—(AP)—Boiling lye water was poured on Samuel Aisenson and his two sons, Harold 11, and Martin 14, as they slept early today in the Brooklyn apartment. Police arrested Mrs. Minnie Aisenson, stepmother of the boys, whom they found in a nightdress in a yard.

Detectives said neighbors informed them the stepmother had been jealous of the boys. A year ago she married Aisenson, who is 42 and a printer, bringing to his house her own child, now 4.

Police said she had jumped from the rear window of her apartment, spraining her ankle.

At Corby Island hospital physicians said Aisenson was harmed from head to waist and might not recover. The boys also were badly seared.

East Grove Woman Died This Morning

Miss Margaret Whalen, aged 56, a native of East Grove township, where she was born Feb. 14, 1875, passed away at her home in that township early this morning. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church in Maytown, with burial in the Catholic cemetery at Amboy. Miss Whalen, whose parents, James and Catherine (Fleming) Whalen, had preceded her in death, is survived by a sister, Miss Mary, and a brother James, both of East Grove.

BODIES OF TWO WOMEN FOUND IN RIVER AT CLINTON, ILL. SUNDAY: ONE WEIGHTED DOWN WITH STONES

Clinton, Iowa, April 20—(AP)—Coroner L. O. Riggert today planned an inquest into the death of an unidentified woman, approximately 22, whose body was found in the Wapashippin river ten miles south of here Sunday. Stones were wired about her neck and feet held the body under three feet of water.

A second body, found floating in the Mississippi river opposite the town was identified Sunday by Mike Blumberg as that of Rose Caviezel, 19, who disappeared here last Novem-

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

NOT DIXON MAN.

J. R. Knapp, who was indicted by the grand jury last week for larceny, is not the Dixon citizen of that name. The similarity of names has caused the Dixon man considerable embarrassment.

CAR RIFLED.

William King, residing on rural route 5, reported to the police Saturday evening that his car, which he had parked in the business section, had been entered and ransacked. Four pair of shoes, three pair of overalls and other wearing apparel valued at about $25 were taken.

CITY ELECTION TUESDAY.

The city election between the hours of 7 A. M. and 5 P. M. tomorrow will hold the attention of voters. The mayor and four commissioners for the next four years are to be chosen, and a proposal for levy of a bond tax is also submitted.

STERLINGITE STRICKEN.

Herman V. Bittorf, one of the proprietors of the National Manufacturing Co., of that city, and well known financier and philanthropist, is reported to be near death today, the result of a stroke suffered early Saturday evening. Little hope is entertained for his recovery.

TAKES NEW POSITION.

Lyle Gleesner, for the past seven years a salesman for the Dixon Grocery & Market, has resigned his position and today became the northern Illinois salesman for the confectionery department of the Bechnut Packing Co., with headquarters in Rockford. Lyle's many friends predict success for him in his new position.

FIRST SWIM SUNDAY.

Steve, Joe and Anthony Buberik, who reside east of the city, claim the distinction of being the first swimmers to test the waters of Rock river this spring. The three young men went to Lowell park Sunday afternoon and donning their bathing suits, took their first swim and after some minutes in the water, emerged and pronounced the water ideal for swimming.

GUEST ARTIST AT KNTN.

Miss Arlin Steffa of this city was a guest artist at radio station KNTN at Muscatine, Iowa, Sunday afternoon. She was heard in her broadcast playing two numbers on the Hawaiian guitar as follows: "The Rosary" by Nevins and "O! Black Joe" an old favorite. Miss Steffa will be a guest of the same station in a few weeks at the opening of the outdoor studio.

SHOTS HEARD IN NIGHT.

The peaceful slumbers of many south side residents was disturbed suddenly Sunday morning about 2:30 by a fusillade of shots which sounded like a machine gun battle. At the police station this morning it was reported that the shots came from the vicinity of Highland avenue and Fifth street where a "party" was said to have been in progress, but no arrests had been made at noon today.

IN POLICE COURT.

Percy Tompkins and John Lawler of this city were arrested Saturday night by the police on West First street and taken to the police station. This morning Lawler was assessed a fine of $10 and costs on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct which was paid. Tompkins retained an attorney and his case was continued until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Sam Dresler was taken in custody by the police about 11:30 Sunday night when he was found lying on a sidewalk on East River street, apparently lifeless. This morning he was assessed a fine of $10 and costs by Justice Grover Gehant in police court on an intoxication charge and in default, was sent to the county jail.

Probe Bank Accounts Of Police Officials

Chicago, April 20—(AP)—Banking records of Chicago police officers will come under the scrutiny of a special Cook county grand jury investigating political and criminal alliances, it was announced yesterday. Subpoenas were to be served today on loop bankers and managers of safety deposit boxes directing them to produce all records bearing on the financial affairs of 17 police captains.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, in charge of the investigation, said the jury merely wants the facts in cold figures, and does not start out with any presumption of guilt.

MONOXIDE GAS KILLS MICHAEL CLEARY TODAY

Found Dead in Garage On North Side; Inquest Ordered

Michael Cleary, former Palmyra township farmer and known in this city, was supposedly the victim of monoxide gas poisoning this morning in a garage at the rear of the William Giese residence, 232 West Everett street, where he had resided recently. Mrs. Giese glanced into a window of the garage about 10:30 this morning and saw Cleary sitting upright in the seat of his Ford coupe, one leg inside the car and the other hanging out the door and apparently lifeless. She immediately telephoned police.

Chief J. D. Van Bibber and Patrolman John Bohnstel responded and conducted an investigation. A physician was summoned by the police who upon his arrival pronounced the man dead. A force of Illinois Northern Utilities Company workers labored for more than an hour in an effort to restore life but were unsuccessful, and the body was removed to the Preston mortuary.

Stops Gas, Constipation
In his private practice, Dr. Carl Westcheke first perfected the simple mixture now known as Adlerika. Unlike most remedies, Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old poisons you would never believe were in your system. Stops GAS bloating in 10 minutes! Relieves chronic constipation in 2 hours! Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel! It will surprise you. CONVERSE

THE moon,
Bright, breathless and buoy-
ant and brimful of June,
Floated up from the hillside,
sloped over the vale.
And poised herself loose in
midheaven, with one pale,
Minute, scintilless and tremulous
star
Swinging under her globe. . .
One lone nightingale
Sung aloof in the laurels. And here,
side by side,
Hand in hand, the two women sat
down undescribed,
Save by guardian angels.
As when, sparkling yet
From the rain, that, with drops that are jewels, leaves wet
The bright head it humbles, a young rose inclines
To some pale lily near it, the fair
vision shines
As one flower with two faces, in
hush'd fearful speech,
Like the showery whispers of flowers,
each to each
Link'd and leaning together so loving, so fair
So united, yet diverse, the two women there
Look'd indeed like two flowers upon one drooping stem.
—Owen Meredith in "Lucile."

Meeting Missionary Soc. Bethel Church

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Society of Bethel U. E. church met on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Rogers with Mrs. J. O. Nelson assistant hostess.

Meeting opened by the singing of two hymns, "All the Way My Savior Leads," and "Tell Me the Story."
The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. J. O. Nelson. Three members followed with prayer.

Song "Take the Name of Jesus" was sung by all. A very interesting leaflet was read by Miss Carrie Swartz.

The topic taken from the text book
Frontier Missions in the Central Sudan in Africa was developed most interestingly by Mrs. Paul Gordon. Miss Rilla Webster favored with a reading in a very pleasing manner.

Current Events of Missionary interest was given by several members.
Recitations by Little Dorothy Mae
Nelson was enjoyed by all.

Program closed with a prayer by Mrs. Carl Hess.

The usual business was taken care of. A letter was read by Mrs. Gordon from Missionaries laboring in South America, telling of their labors there.

It became necessary to re-elect the
following officers:

Vice Pres.—Mrs. J. O. Nelson.
Recording Sec.—Mrs. Carl Hess.
Cor. Sec.—Mrs. J. U. Weyant.

A letter from the American Mission to Lepers was read by Mrs. J. O. Nelson telling of the work being done and thanking the society for money sent them.

A liberal self denial offering was lifted.
The members denied themselves refreshments as this was the annual self-denial meeting.

Amboy barber, were united in marriage Monday, April 6 at the Rock Island county court house in Rock Island by Probate Judge Benjamin D. Farrar. The marriage license had been issued to the couple earlier the same day.

Both bride and groom are known to all Amboyans. They were residents there for some time. Mr.
Gaede being employed in Phil
Flach's barber shop and the bride,
a native of Sublette, coming to Amboy
some few years ago to serve as nurse
in local hospital.

Before leaving Amboy Mr. Gaede purchased a barber shop of his own in Joy, Ill. Joy is a town of about 700 population located just west of Aledo in Mercer county. Mr. and Mrs. Gaede, is expected, will make their home at that place. They have the best wishes of their many friends and acquaintances.

W.H.M.S. in Regular Meeting Thursday

On Thursday afternoon, April 16,
the W. H. M. S. of the Methodist church held its regular meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. H. D.
Bills. After singing "For Christ and the Church" the devotions were led by Mrs. Etta Frye. She read St.
John 14 Chapter and the first three verses of the first chapter of I John.
A short clipping was read by Mrs. A.
D. George and Mrs. Thomson offered prayer.

Mrs. Alice Anderson was the leader of the interesting program which followed Mesdames Palmer, Reed and Quick put on a demonstration "The Reading of the Mite Box News". Two short poems about the Mite Box were read by Mrs. Jennie Withers. Then followed another Mite Box demonstration given by Mrs. H. D. Helmick and Mrs. Chas. Wimbrenner. Mrs.
Bertha Rorick then entertained us with a Mite Box song.

Two letters were read by the secretary, one from Mrs. Goode, our National president and the other from our conference officers.

Parts of the bulletin were read and it was decided to adopt the resolutions relative to motion pictures contained in the bulletin and send to Mr.
Hayes.

The program of our district meeting which will be held in Fourth St.
church, Sterling, May 21-22 was read.
Because of our next regular meeting day falling on the same day as our district meeting our next meeting will be held a week earlier, May 14 at the home of Mrs. Weiler.

In closing we sang "God Bless our Native Land" and all repeated the Lord's prayer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Peterson's group.

The next meeting is the time for the election of officers. The nominating committee are Mrs. Clingman, chairman and Mrs. Bennett and Mrs.
Peterson.

Series of Accidents Start Wedded Life

Waterboro, Me. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Mark T. Johnson, newlyweds, do not appreciate sap-stick comedy.
At least, they don't think the series of events which delayed their honeymoon was funny.

After the ceremony, the bride was showing her new home to Mrs.
Richard Carpenter, mother of the bridesmaid. Upstairs, the bride tripped, stumbled against Mrs. Carpenter, and both fell the entire flight. Mrs. Carpenter broke her wrist.

When she fell Mrs. Johnson was carrying a kerosene lamp. The lamp landed on a living room rug
which burst into flames. G. W. M.
Bailey fell on the lamp and cut his wrist. Edward W. Peters fell over Bailey and burned his hands on the rug.

Truth Seekers' Class Met Tuesday

An Tuesday evening, April 14th,
"Truth Seekers' Class" and their families held a class meeting in the hall
over Sheller's store in Grand Detour.
A base ball game was enjoyed by the men and boys, after which a most delicious picnic supper was served. After the supper a social time was enjoyed in playing games which caused much laughter.

After having spent a very happy evening together all departed thanking the committee for the good time.

W. C. T. U. Meeting Held on Friday

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union meeting was held in the Bethel Evangelical church Friday afternoon. The President, Miss Kate Plant, conducted the meeting which opened with the song "O, Master Let Me Walk with Thee." Prayer followed, offered by Mrs. Heckman. Mrs. H.
Missman and Miss Plant. The song
"Win Them One by One" was sung in accord with the membership drive.

Miss Morgan read a letter from Eph-ra Marshall, urging the women to secure new members. Rev. Paul Gordon conducted the devotions, and read the Scripture lesson, Joshua 1st chapter. He termed it the courage chapter. "Be strong and of good courage." "Turn not to the right hand, nor to the left." The W. C. T.
U. needs more courage now than ever before." He followed with prayer.

"It is in the Constitution, and it's

There to Stay," was sung in unison.

Mrs. Merion Maben read a letter
she had received from Christina Meechie, L. L. A. Secretary of the British Woman's Temperance Association. The exchange of greetings was secured through Mrs. Maben's nephew, of Glasgow, Scotland.

Space will permit only a few lines of her letter, as follows: "Permit me to say, that your cause is ours. Well we know how the liquor traffic the wide world over would rejoice were America to repeal the 18th amendment, and of course they are all working hand and glove in the same cause. Perth branch of the British Woman's Temperance Association has its business meeting on the 1st Tuesday in each month, at 7 P. M. Those of us who can, meet half an hour
earlier for prayer and we always remember you there too." Miss Meechie often sends articles to our Union Signal—on was in the Feb. 14th issue.

The treasurer, Miss Morgan, gave her report, the secretary being absent
Mrs. Maben was requested to act.

The closing number in song was "America."

The next meeting will be held in the Congregational church. It will be an all day meeting, with picnic dinner, and sewing of carpet rags, conducted by the Soldiers and Sailors department. At that meeting the spring institute will also be held.

Attended Golden Wedding Fete At Freeport Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Irving B. Hoefer and daughter, Miss Jane, spent the weekend in Freeport at the home of Mr.
Hoefer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August G. Hoefer, who Sunday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. All of the children but one son Elmer, living at Chapel Hill, N.
C., were present to join in the happy family reunion: Alfred Hoefer and wife and daughter Alice of Evanston, Irving Hoefer, wife and daughter Jane of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hoefer of Minneapolis.
Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Hoefer and son Merrill, Jr., of Wilmette, and Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Weber and William, Merrill and Jean of Freeport.

Sophia Sandmeier and August G.
Hoefer were married fifty years ago on April 20th, at the home of the bride's mother in Centennial. The bride and groom went to Pearl City to live and remained there for seven or eight years. Mr. Hoefer operating the general store. After moving to Freeport, Mr. Hoefer was connected with the Hoefer Manufacturing company for a number of years. After taking up their residence on S.
Walnut avenue, Mr. Hoefer felt free to give free rain to a hobby he was much interested in—keeping bees.

And yearly he averages between four and five thousands pounds of honey.

There is an interesting story about
Mr. Hoefer's father, Henry Hoefer.

BEAUTY IN BUSINESS.

A few years hence, according to a writer in the current issue of The American Architect, every business man will be an artist.

This, it seems, will not be because of any sudden flowering of a latent creative impulse. Rather it will be because business is learning that beauty has a high sales value. Beautiful things sell better than ugly things. Everybody is going to have to fall in line.

"This all means," says the magazine writer, "that soon a new generation will be in our midst, a generation with a fine conception of art and beauty, a conception so fine that it will pervade all business. And so, the business man brought up in this atmosphere must of necessity be himself an artist if he is to survive the stern competition of a business world actuated by beauty."

It is at least encouraging to realize that beauty, in America, does have a high sales value nowadays. In the past—even the recent past—this has not always been quite true. Certain real estate developments on the edges of great cities, for example, have contained houses as supremely ugly as anything man ever made anywhere. There have been times when Americans went in for furniture that was frankly hideous. Some of the proudest buildings and monuments in some of our leading cities have been of a kind to give an artistic person the shudders.

So, if a new order is coming into existence, we can only be thankful. It is, of course, overdoing it a little to say that every business man will be an artist. Probably it would be nearer the mark to say that every big business man will take pains to hire artists.

All of this is just another indication that the frontier period in American life is passing. Until very recently, the entire nation was under the dominance of a frontier atmosphere, even though the actual, physical frontier had long since passed out of existence.

A frontier society values deeds above all else. It puts the doer on a pedestal, and either refuses altogether to put up with the artist and the thinker or, at best, barely tolerates them. It is bound to display that attitude. It has too much work to do to display any other.

Today America is just emerging from that frame of mind. The actual hostility to beautiful things which critics of American life observed in the past is disappearing. The artist, along with other creative workers, is getting a better break.

WAGE REDUCTIONS.

The shadow of impending wage reductions continues to darken the American industrial sky. On one hand we have labor leaders and politicians insisting that the present scales must be maintained; on the other, we have strong, steadily growing rumors that reductions are about to be made by certain key industries, and here and there a venturesome banker rises to remark that no industrial recovery is possible until labor has taken a healthy cut.

What will happen probably depends largely on the duration of the depression. If a genuine business recovery is deferred many months longer, it is all too probable that factories will begin slashing their wage scales. On the contrary, if recovery comes soon all that kind of talk will be forgotten.

Meanwhile, there are one or two other factors to consider. In the first place, one cannot fail to be impressed by the contrast in the country's attitude towards wage reductions today and its attitude in the post-war slump. In the depression of 1920-21, business and political leaders were almost unanimous in demanding that labor "be deflated." We still felt, in those days, that it was somehow abnormal and improper for the factory hand to be buying luxuries. We still felt that the wage earner ought, normally, to be just a jump or two ahead of poverty.

If the last decade has done nothing else for us, it has at least weaned us away from that belief. The country at large has accepted the notion that prosperity is not worth having unless it means prosperity for the mechanic, the weaver and the lathe-tender. Our conception of the workingman's rights has broadened enormously. The nation is no longer willing with equanimity to talk of wage reductions. No one is demanding that labor be deflated.

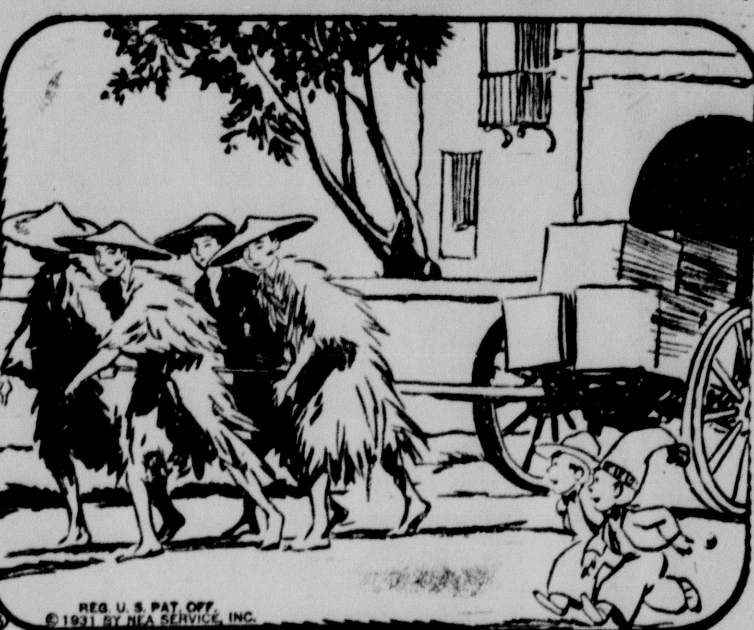

In the second place, one is tempted to wonder if a reduction in wages is the only possible stimulant for drooping trade. Cutting wages may reduce production costs; it also, inevitably reduces purchasing power as well. The potential consumer who cannot afford to buy things will hardly help bring about a trade revival.

A book on contract bridge sold 64,000 copies the first three months. They say it got a big "play."

The trouble with most motorists, says the office sage, is that they are bound to get their way.

By buying a ticket for a farce at a London theater, you are given two tickets for the Derby. In either case you haven't got a show.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

At dawn the Tynies all arose and Clowdy shouted, "Goodness knows, I am as hungry as can be. I slept just like a king. Let's step out for a morning hike, and then stop in some place we like and get a bit of breakfast, ere we do one other thing."

"A good idea! Come along," said Clowdy. "Walking makes us strong. I'd like a wide umbrella 'cause the sun is shining bright. There's one thing that I always dread and that's a reddish, sunburned head. Let's stop and buy a couple. Then our walk will be all right."

The Travel Man said, "That's a plan that I will help out, if I can." And then he found a Chinese store and promptly went inside. "Get big umbrellas, colored bright and, on the street, we'll be a sight," said Clowdy. Then they hiked along, the Tynies side by side.

Not far along the winding street they heard the noise of many feet.

"Oh, look!" cried Clowdy, "Goodness me, those men have quite a load. I'll bet that they are mighty strong, the way they travel right along. You'd think that they'd get all tired out trudging down the road."

"They're coolies," said the Travel Man. "And, can they work? You bet they can! Why, all day long you'll see them pulling wagons 'round the town. I've often heard their pay is small, 'en though they have a heavy haul. It seems no matter how they work, it does not wear them down."

Each coolie they were looking at was decked out in a great big hat to keep the sun out of his eyes. One waved and said, "Hello!" The Tynies waved right back and then they went upon their way again. "What will we see next?" Clowdy asked. "Where are we going to go?"

(The Tynies meet a Chinese fisherman in the next story.)

HYGIENE OF CHILD BIRTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The building materials for the prospective child can be had through the body of the mother. Therefore, the mother must provide in her diet the food substances necessary to build the child, and at the same time to maintain her own body in a fair state of health.

If the growing child does not secure the nutrition that it needs through the food taken by the mother, it will take these materials from the body of the mother. Thus it is that the women who are undergoing the process of childbirth are sometimes undernourished. For this reason also the old epigram, "For every child a tooth" If the mother eats properly, she is not likely to have trouble with her teeth nor is she likely herself to become undernourished.

The proper diet contains proteins, carbohydrates, fats, mineral salts and vitamins. During the period when a woman is expected to undergo childbirth, she needs extra amounts of minerals and vitamins.

As has been repeatedly emphasized in these columns, the foods containing these substances to best advantage are milk, whole grain cereals, leafy green vegetables, eggs and fruit.

If the prospective mother will make certain that her diet contains at least two leafy green vegetables every day and a quart of milk, she will be quite certain of having a sufficient amount of calcium to build bones and to maintain teeth. It is not necessary that the quart of milk be taken as whole milk. It can be used in combination with cereals, soups, custards, puddings or in the form of butter milk, cottage cheese or as milk that is powdered or evaporated.

The whole grains are especially valuable because of their mineral and vitamin content, and the leafy green vegetables contain salts and most of the vitamins (except vitamin D). In order to provide adequate amounts of vitamin D, the mother should probably take cod-liver oil or viosterol.

In most places in this country she will not get sufficient sunlight under ordinary living conditions, and it will be necessary to get the vitamin D through the substances that have been mentioned. If her diet seems to be deficient in any of the other vitamins because she is unable to take the foods that have been mentioned, the physician may be able to prescribe concentrates of vitamin A and of vitamin B, which are now available. Vitamin C is best had in fresh fruits, particularly citrus fruits.

The prospective mother does not

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By Ahern

need any extra salt. What she gets through usual seasoning of food is probably sufficient. It is important, of course, that the food taken in be properly digested and assimilated. It is not necessary to eat any food that upsets the digestion or that causes a feeling of nausea.

The essential substances are to be found in a wide variety of food and a choice should be made among those that seem to meet the conditions best.

Because there is a tendency to putting on weight, due to the lack of exercise, overeating should be avoided. The average woman should not gain more than 20 pounds during the entire period.

There is no evidence that smoking in moderation is harmful to the mother or to the child. Excessive use of alcohol or tobacco may be harmful to both.

HERO OF REVOLT OF ARABIANS NOW IN HUMBLE PLACE

"Lawrence Of Arabia's" Reason For Giving Up Power Told

By United Press

Lawrence of Arabia has spoken! Lawrence, who whirled like a mysterious force over the dunes of Arabia, to found an empire on its shifting political sands, has broken a silence of eight years to tell why he waved aside honor and glory, to sink his identity beneath the tunic of a private soldier.

Today, from his own lips, the United Press is able to give his answer to a riddle of eight years—the reason why this man, whose "kingdom" stretched from the Red Sea to the Persian Gulf, from Aleppo to Mocha, changed his name and became a humble mechanic in His Majesty's air force.

Lawrence the unknown, his burr-on-clad figure appearing and disappearing like magic in the tents of desert princes, is the man who fanned the flame of Arab revolt, and welded in its fire the engine that swept Turkish rule from the land. Today he tells why, shunning titles and honors, he asks for "nothing but modest contentment."

This is the first explanation of the mystery of "Aircraftman Shaw." It was to Henry T. Russell, of the United Press London bureau, that he gave his story, in personal and privileged conversation.

Following is the first of a series of four articles by Russell.

By HENRY T. RUSSELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyrighted 1931 in all countries by United Press. All rights reserved.)

Plymouth, England, April 20 (UP)—"Lawrence of Arabia," the most mysterious figure that emerged from the great war, now serving in the Royal Air Force as Aircraftman T. E. Shaw, lifted today the veil of secrecy which has surrounded his life during the past 10 years.

Big Reward Offered

This man, who single-handed raised the Arabs against the Turks, changed the fate of the allies on the Palestine war front, and for whose body, dead or alive, the Turks offered $50,000 reward, told for the first time why he gave up the position which earned for him the description "Uncrowned King of Arabia," abandoned his rank of Colonel in the British Army, refused all titles, monetary rewards, decorations and honors, picked a new name and enlisted in the Royal Air Force as a private.

As Colonel Lawrence during "his" war in the desert, he had virtual command of the entire Arab army. Today, as Aircraftman Shaw, he must obey anyone above the rank of an Aircraftman. First Class, who gives him orders.

During the war Lawrence was entrusted by the British government at various times with huge sums in gold which he apportioned as he saw fit among the Arab chieftains who fought his battles.

Now his pay is eighty cents a day. From this he saves a small portion. The rest he spends on gasoline for his American-built speedboat, his motorcycle, and for gramophone records for what he calls his "tinned music" supply.

No Arabian prince ever had such power as Lawrence had during the war. Not even Field Marshal Lord Allenby, in command of the allied forces in Palestine, or any other of Lawrence's technically superior officers, interfered with the orders which he issued in the desert. Lawrence was, in effect, "Uncrowned King of Arabia." Now he lives in an army hut with 19 other men, most of them Air force mechanics. He sleeps on an olive-green iron army cot with a tough mattress of cocoanut fibre. He has five service blankets and a pair of sheets to cover him. His pillow of the same substance is as tough as his mattress. Above his cot is a green steel locker. This generally contains most of the owner's "treasures"—books, tobacco, spare clothing, and the like.

Shown Treasures
Lawrence showed me all this. While he was doing so he told me why he chose this mode of living. He explained how it felt to be "hounded by the ghost of fame." He denied ill-health caused him to retire.

"I am an archaeologist," he said, "but since my adventures in the desert the parts which I want to explore are banned territories to me. I can't go to Egypt. The French won't allow me through any of their territory. Turkey won't have me." He paused, smiled, then pointing a finger at himself:

"Look at me," he said, "I am a dangerous man."

He laughed at his own sarcastic reference to his small stature.

"They say I entered the R. A. F. because of bad health. Some say I was 'riddled with bullets'; others say I was verging a nervous breakdown following my experiences in the desert. You can't become a member of the R. A. F. if you are physically or mentally unfit. I joined the R. A. F. simply because I wanted a job at which I could work with my hands, as I used to when I conducted excavations."

"Traditions in England made my desire difficult to fulfill. Wherever I went I was expected to become a hero. One of the heads of the firm. Nothing, you see, could be 'good enough' for Colonel Lawrence. Once a Colonel, always a Colonel. That a Colonel should want to do work generally considered to be below what a Colonel should do was unthinkable."

Ranks Important
"In England rank counts for much. There are certain things which are 'just not done' when you have rank here. For one thing, machines when you are in a position to do not do, as a rule, repair them for you. I like repairing machines. I enjoy tinkering with machinery. If I can't do this as a Colonel, then I want to do it as a private. So I am a private."

Being waited upon hand and foot as he was during his war in the desert, he explained, was monotonous after a time. Having rank and responsibility entailing obedience to politicians, he said, was odious to him. You don't have to agree with the policy of a government when you are a private in the air force, he continued.

"That is one reason why I refused decorations and other honors offered me," he continued. "Had I accepted them at the time they would have shut my mouth! By refusing them I was able to speak my mind. After a long struggle with cabinet ministers and others, I got the government, thanks to Winston Churchill, to fulfill as many promises made to the Arabs during the war as it was humanly possible and practicable to fulfill. Then it was I decided to give up all of which I was sick and tired and chose to enter the R. A. F."

No Mystery In R. A. F.
"There is no mystery about my life there. I live as public a life as it is possible to live. I am in barracks with other men. I sleep under the same roof with 19 of them. I eat with them. I perform my duties daily, as they do. I can be seen any time by anybody who takes the trouble to look at me. I am known to hundreds in the air force. In my hut we all know each other well."

"To begin with we all take our shirts off in the same place every morning. We soon find out all about one another. We soon know to whom we can lend a shilling and be sure to get it back. The life I lead, I should say, is so public that one can hardly suggest that I am in a distant part of the world stirring up trouble; that is one reason why I chose such a life. Yet, from newspaper clippings sent to me I understand to this very day I am accused of being the soul of rebellions which break out from time to time in far distant lands! But I have no such power. While they say these things about me I am doing far less romantic things: every morning I sweep the office in which I work daily with my superior officer."

(Russell's second article will be published tomorrow. It deals with the modest "Ambitions of Aircraftman Shaw.")

Wisconsin had a decrease of 15 per cent in marriages in 1930 from 1929. The state board of health attributes the cause to a law requiring five-day notice.

MILLIONS ENJOY
UNUSUAL THRILL
IN RARE COFFEE

Patented Roasting Process
Gives Hills Bros. Coffee
Distinctive Flavor

By a radically different process of flavor-control, Hills Bros. have given their rare blend of coffee a flavor such as no other coffee has.

"A little at a time" is the basis of this patented process—Controlled Roasting. A constant stream of green coffee is introduced into the roasters in automatically measured lots of about three pounds, and passes through in a steady flow, roasting a little at a time. The heat is automatically controlled so any variation in the roast is absolutely prevented.

Such uniformity of the roast is not possible by bulk methods. In spite of watchful care some of the coffee is roasted too much—some too little. Flavor variation is therefore inevitable.

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted, it is ground and packed in vacuum. By this process air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken from the can, and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, will not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Sold everywhere by grocers.

Baseball Gossip

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If major league pitchers can continue their performances of the season's first few games, some of the strikeout records may be in serious danger. Whether it is the changed ball or a more epidemic of poor batting eyes, fanning this year seems to occur more often than in previous seasons when slugging was the rage.

Seven hurlers in the two major leagues struck out five or more batters in yesterday's eight games, and in many cases that was not enough to win or even keep the pitcher on the mound for nine innings. Big Fred Fitzsimmons of the New York Giants led the way, fanning seven of the Boston Braves as his team won 9 to 2. Fitz limited the Braves to six hits in giving them their first defeat of the season while the Giants got 14 blows to go into a three-way tie for the league lead.

In a long drawn out game which saw the Chicago White Sox which the St. Louis Browns 12 to 6, 14 men struck out. Sam Gray, one of four St. Louis pitchers, and credited with the loss, and Garland Braxton of Chicago each whiffed five. With a near record crowd of 80,000 looking on Rube Walberg of Philadelphia bested Charley Ruffing of the New York Yankees 3 to 2 in a pitching and fanning duel. Walberg struck out six and allowed the same number of hits. Ruffing fanned five while giving seven hits.

Charley Root of the Chicago Cubs and Remy Kremer of Pittsburgh also were credited with six strikeouts apiece. Root was wild at the start but good Cub fielding aided him in turning back the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1. It was the first defeat for the Cards, putting them level with the Braves and Giants. Weak base running by the Reds rendered Kremer's six walks harmless to Pittsburgh as the Pirates won 5 to 1. Cincinnati had 14 men left on base.

Good pitching also came to the fore in the other American League games, bringing victories to Washington and Detroit. Lloyd Brown's mound work helped the Senators take the lead by shutting out the Boston Red Sox 8-0. Earl Whitehill turned back Cleveland with seven hits, stopping all of the Indians but young Joe Vespik, to win, 7 to 2. Vosmik's homer brought in both Cleveland runs and with a single left him a batting average of .467 for five games.

"Philadelphia's two Elliotts combined to hold Brooklyn to seven blows in the remaining National League game and hand the Robins their fifth straight defeat, 6 to 4, in ten innings. Homers by O'Doul and Herman were the leading Brooklyn blows.

YANKS AFTER RECORD

New York, Apr. 20.—(AP)—The New York Yankees apparently are bent on setting a new attendance record for major league baseball this season. They've played five games so far and drawn an aggregate attendance of 205,000, an average of 41,000 a game.

Yesterday 80,403 jammed the Yankee Stadium to watch Philadelphia trip Joe McCarthy's men, 3-2. The only larger crowd came to the Stadium in September, 1928, when 85,265 saw the Yankees beat the A's twice in a Sunday double-header.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Mule Haas, Athletics—His single in eighth scored Bishop with run that beat Yankees, 3-2.

Charley Root, Cubs—Held Cardinals to six hits, fanned six and beat them, 4-1.

Roy Spencer, Senators—Drove in four runs with triple and single against Red Sox.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants—Gave Braves only six hits and beat them easily, 9-2.

Harry McCurdy, Phillies—Pinch single in tenth drove in two runs and beat Robins, 6-4.

Earl Whitehill, Tigers—Stopped Indians with seven hits and beat them, 7-2.

SPORT BRIEFS

Chicago, Apr. 20.—(UP)—More than 600 horses have arrived at Exposition Park, Aurora, Ill., for the opening of the racing season there May 1. Horses from the Paradise stable of J. P. Headley of Lexington, Ky., arrived yesterday. It is expected that more than 1,000 horses will be on the scene by the end of the week.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, rightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Independents Drop Extra Inning Game

The Dixon Independents baseball team lost their first game of the season at Steward Sunday afternoon after fighting for eleven innings the score being 3 to 2 at the finish. Eddie Burns of Rockford, pitched great ball for the Independents, striking out 15 of the opposing batters, allowing but five scattered hits and allowing but three bases on balls. Herman and Piene, pitchers for Steward, struck out 14 Independents, passed two and allowed six hits. Joe Liewald led the hitting with a double and a triple during the afternoon.

Poor fielding and bad base throwing on the part of the Independents permitted Steward to score the first two runs of the game. In the eleventh after two were out, Krug single, stole second and scored on Bohart's single over second and thus winning the game for Steward.

Next Sunday afternoon the Rockford Eagles are scheduled to meet the Independents in the first game for the locals on the home diamond.

Oak Ridge Defeated Sterling In First

The Oak Ridge baseball team formally opened their season Sunday afternoon by defeating Sterling by a score of 8 to 4 before a fair sized crowd of spectators. The game was close until the seventh inning when Oak Ridge landed on two Sterling pitchers for five runs. Lebre, Oak Ridge's twirler held Sterling well in hand, allowing but six scattered hits and striking out an even dozen batters. Sterling's pitchers did not fair so well, allowing 13 hits and fanning but four of the opposing batters. Next Sunday Oak Ridge will meet Lee Center at Oak Ridge.

Worley Within One Of Perfect Score

While rolling with Dale Sennett at the Dixon Recreation bowling alleys Sunday afternoon, Ed Worley missed a perfect score by only one pin. In the final frame of their doubles game, Worley got but nine pins. His scores of 214-299 and 247, totalling 760 pins along with Sennett's 182-268-202, for 652 total pins made a doubles total of 1,412 pins which is a record in bowling circles.

D. H. S. ADOPTS NEW STANDARD COLLEGE TESTS

The Plan, Inaugurated By Cornell College, To Be Given Trial

The Dixon high school has adopted a project in the study of present day college entrance requirements which is being inaugurated by Cornell College at Mt. Vernon, Iowa. This project is to determine if a superior pupil is capable of doing satisfactory college work after three years of high school preparation and the plan has been approved by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of which the Dixon high school is a member.

The project will be supervised by Dr. Floyd W. Reeves, professor of education and director of the University of Survey in the University of Chicago and director of the educational institution carried on by the Board of Education of the Methodist church; and Dr. Carl E. Seashore, dean of the graduate school of the University of Iowa.

Interested students who have completed three years of high school work and rank in the upper one-fourth of their classes may make application for consideration. From this group as many as 20 to 25 may be accepted finally as members of this group. The final selection will be based on (1) a battery of tests including tests of the content of high school courses, tests of special scholastic aptitude, silent reading tests, a psychological examination, and a personality schedule (2) rating on traits included in regular admission blank sent out by the office of admissions to all students making application for admission to the college, (3) estimation of the student's social maturity by those who know him intimately. The college reserves the right to reject any or all applications.

Students who rank in the upper one-fourth of the high school class may apply for consideration. Application should be made at once to the secretary of admissions, Cornell college, Mt. Vernon, Iowa, or to President H. J. Burgtahler. Those who seem to be promising candidates will be called to Mt. Vernon and other points will be designated for the qualifying examination. The applications must be on file in the admissions office not later than May 15, 1931.

School Accredited
Prof. A. H. Lancaster, principal of the Dixon high school, has just been notified that this school has been accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for the period ending March 20, 1932. In explanation of the term of accrediting the local school authorities have been advised that it is the established policy of the Association to prepare each year a new list of approved secondary schools accorded this honor and that no school is accredited by the North Central Association for a period longer than one year.

Before any school can be considered for accrediting by the North Central Association it must be on the highest list of schools approved and accredited by the school authorities of this state. In addition it must meet the high standards which the association maintains with respect to the school building and its equipment, the school library, laboratories and instructional equipment and apparatus, school records, the requirements for graduation, instruction and spirit, salaries of teachers, the training and preparation of pupils, the teaching load, pupil loads, and the school's program with reference to physical education and to its athletic relationship with other high schools as determined by the state athletic association.

The North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools is an accrediting agency comprising twenty states and is the largest regional accrediting agency in the United States. The object of the association is to establish closer relations between the secondary schools and the institutions of higher education within the North Central states and in such other territory as the North Central Association may recognize. All decisions of the association bearing on the policies and management of secondary schools and institutions of higher education are understood to be advisory in their character. The accrediting of schools by the North Central Association is a cooperative undertaking. Membership in this association is purely voluntary. It must be the desire of the local authorities of a high school to have the school accredited by the association in order to have it considered for accrediting.

Advantages that high schools realize as a result of being accredited by the North Central Association, this privilege of entering institutions of higher education without entrance examinations, provided that they have studied in the high school subjects required by the college or university for admission. Since other accrediting agencies recognize schools accredited by the North Central Association, this privilege of entering institutions of high education without examination is extended practically throughout the United States.

The graduates of accredited high schools are privileged to enter institutions of higher education without entrance examinations, provided that they have studied in the high school subjects required by the college or university for admission. Since other accrediting agencies recognize schools accredited by the North Central Association, this privilege of entering institutions of high education without examination is extended practically throughout the United States.

The graduates of accredited high schools have the assurance that their high school diplomas will be acceptable to state boards having to do with the granting of certificates for the various professions of medicine, dentistry, law, etc. In states requiring graduation from approved high school as prerequisite to the obtaining of a teaching certificate, the graduates of schools accredited by the North Central Association meet the requirements of such a law.

A high school approved by the North Central Association must maintain high standards and consequently the community is assured of a program of modern high school education.

The examination of the school at regular intervals by inspectors and supervisors serves to stimulate progress and to prevent the development of questionable practices and tendencies.

A high school accredited by the North Central Association enjoys a greater prestige in the surrounding country and therefore finds it easier to attract a nonresident pupil. The patrons have more confidence in, and are generally more willing to support, an accredited high school.

The Dixon high school has been on the list of approved Secondary schools as prepared by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools since 1905. This modification means that the high school is continuing to meet the standards of the Association.

Got Honorable Mention In Poem Contest Recently

In a recent poetry contest conducted among pupils in the Dixon schools a number of entries were adjudged worthy of honorable mention by the judges of the contest. This is one of them:

BY DOROTHY N. BEARD

I was brought up out in Dixon,
Dixon out in Illinois.
And it didn't need much fixin',
Nature's gem without alloy.

Nestled on the fair Rock River,
Where old Black Hawk and his race,
Saw his star set forever
Before the mighty Pale Face.

Progressive men, the Pioneers,
Built homes and cities, too,
So builded that across the years,
Their labors stand firm and true.

Dixon stands today the center
Of a large and growing trade.
Rich in grain and cattle—Enter!
Here's a welcome for you made.

Of Dixon we all love to boast,
Though it needs not our poor song,
In youth it was our dearest toast,
And will be when years are long.

For I was brought up out in Dixon,
Dixon out in Illinois.
And there's no need tryin' fixin',
Nature's Gold without alloy.

MAYTOWN

Maytown—Grandpa Aubert is not so well at present writing.

George Mead, one of the pioneer settlers of this community, passed away at his home in Maytown on Monday, April 6 after a short illness of heart trouble. He is survived by his wife and nine children: James of Amboy; Julia of Sonoma; Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, Mrs. Kathryn Sharkey and Mrs. Frances Quest of Maytown; Mrs. Margaret Mullinney of Chicago; John of Clinton, Iowa; George of Maytown.

Two children died in infancy. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated at his funeral on Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's church where a host of sorrowing relatives and friends had gathered to pay their last act of homage to one whom they had respected and loved in life.

Father Schmitz, his pastor, was celebrant of the mass, assisted by Rev. P. S. Porcella of Maple Park and deacon and Rev. C. J. Kirkfield of Sonoma as subdeacon. Father Schmitz delivered the sermon bestowing well merited praise upon the deceased's Christian life and ideals. Interment took place on the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery.

Edward Parks and wife of Crystal Lake, Illinois, visited Saturday at the home of Mrs. Mary McFadden of this place.

Mrs. Patrick Sharkey has moved to her new home in Amboy.

Thomas Dulen is serving on the jury at Dixon this week.

A card party was held at St. Patrick's hall on Wednesday evening. High score in euchre was held by John Pary and Francis McFadden, consolation prize being won by Rose Schultz and Lewis Falver.

High in five hundred was held by Mayme McBride and A. H. Montavon, consolation by James Dulen and Eleanor O'Brien.

At hotly contested school election was held at the Murphy district on Saturday but like all the recent elections throughout the country, it went democratic.

A letter from Dr. Murphy who has been confined in the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago for the past six weeks, to his brother Philip of this place states that he is improving every day. We are happy and rejoice with his relatives over this encouraging news as Eddie is one of our former boys and we claim him as our own. The medical world would indeed suffer an irreparable loss should Dr. Murphy be taken away.

Anthony Montavon who attends school at St. Norbert's college in Wisconsin spent the Easter vacation with home folks. "Tony" is looking well and states he is making fine progress in his school work. We wish him the best of luck and a continuance of the splendid success he has met with in his studies so far this year.

PAUL M. PEARSON, GOVERNOR OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS OF THE UNITED STATES, SAYS: "THAT every man has an opportunity to work at the greatest art in the world and to become a great artist. A greater art than poetry, music, drawing, painting, sculpture, or architecture, is the art of living with people. I would not underestimate the skill or spirit which catches, possesses, or creates beauty in these great art forms, but by any great measure the art of living with people requires greater and more varied qualities."

The material with which one works is alive and reacts to every act. It is controlled by mind, will, emotion, prejudices, sympathy and superstition. What skill, intelligence, patience, sympathy and spiritual powers are required in using such material!

To get important results the artist who works with great people must have great faith in them, expect great things of them. People tend to do what is expected of them. The artist must himself exemplify high ideals. As Emerson says: "If you would lift me up, you must be on higher ground. If you would liberate me, you must be free." In working his ideals into the souls of those with whom he labors, the artist is like the "musician on a lake whose melody is sweeter than his knows."

What courage must the artist have who works with people. Content to be misunderstood. "It takes a bolder front to step up to a man one knows as one's enemy and cooperate with him than it does to go a little, simple, thoughtless outside thing like stepping up to him and knocking him down."

Few of us have the taste, or talent, or opportunity to express ourselves through the art forms of poetry or painting or music, but there is no man so poor, so busy, so handicapped, but that he has the opportunity to express his best self through the most difficult, but the most supreme art, The fine art of living with people.

PAW PAW NEWS

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Louise Thor was held from the Baptist church on Monday afternoon. Rev. W. S. Whiteman was in charge of the service. The remains had been brought from Mt. Prospect, where Mrs. Thor died suddenly, following a paralytic stroke. She had been living recently with her sons, Henning and Knute. Her son, Gust, lived but a mile away.

The funeral was largely attended for Mrs. Thor during her life was warm hearted and friendly, making friends where ever she went. She will be much missed by a wide circle of friends who loved her for her kindness and goodness.

Mrs. Prescott of Marengo, a close friend of the deceased, sang beautifully two selections, "Nearer My God to Thee" and "The City Four Square," both favorite hymns of Mrs. Thor. The pallbearers, old family friends, were E. N. Gibbs, R. L. Tarr, C. C. Faber, Alfred Burnett, Alex. Foster and Fuller Runyan. Those present from a distance were her sons, Gust Thor with his wife and daughter; Henning and Knute Thor, all of Mt. Prospect, Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thor of Madison Wisconsin; her daughter, Mrs. Alice Vail and family of Marengo; Lloyd Wesson and family of Sandwich; Frank Johnson, Mrs. Alma Holbo and family of Watertown; George Bark and family of Hinckley; Mrs. Harry Rose and Mrs. Lena Johnson of Maywood.

Obituary

Anna Louise Johnson, one of a family of six children was born in Orebre, Sweden on August 25, 1857, and died at the home of her son at Mt. Prospect, Illinois, Saturday morning, April 11, 1931, age 73 years, 7 months and 18 days.

Her childhood days were spent in Sweden, where she was confirmed and received into the church of the Lutheran faith about the year 1871. In the year 1879 she was united in marriage to Gus Thor. To this union were born six children, namely Henning, Henry, who died in infancy, Gust, Knute and Uhno, all born in Sweden.

In 1893 the family immigrated to America, making their home at Cottage Hill where the daughter, Alice, was born. Here also in 1897 the father was taken by death, leaving the mother with five little children to care for. How well she did this is a story well known to her many friends in Paw Paw and the country round about. In recent years she has lived with her sons at Mt. Prospect, Illinois.

Besides the five children who are left to mourn the departure of a good mother, there are also two grand children, Doris Thor and Thor Vail; three brothers, Charles of Paw Paw, Ill.; Gust Johnson of Leeland and Frank Johnson of Watertown, Ill. and one sister in Sweden. These will all miss a loving sister. Mrs. Thor's life was ever one of loving service, always giving gladly of her time and strength to those who needed her help. She will be kindly remembered by her many friends and neighbors who together with her respected family will mourn her passing.

Dearest mother, thou hast left us,
We our loss do deeply feel
But 'tis God that hath bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

This Saturday the choruses are going to the musical contest at DeKalb. Practice is quite intensive these last few days. We are taking our mixed chorus and the girls chorus. Those who will do solo work are: Ruth Yenerich, soprano; Mercedes Moore, contralto; Eugene Reynolds, baritone; Bruce Wheeler, tenor. Florence Gunderman will represent us in the literary contest on the same date. Roberta Fichtmaster will play the violin.

Reminiscences of Early Days

By O. L. Cornell

To continue west on the north side of Main street, the next place west is the Roberts place, owned now by lifelong friend and schoolmate Ben Roberts. In about the year 1868 Hendrick Roberts and George Sanford came to Paw Paw from Yorkville, and bought this farm from Elisha Swarthout and his two sons John and Port. These three families lived as follows: Elisha the father in what is now the Roberts farm house, John in what is known as the Sanford house where George Swarthout and Mrs. Schuyler Smith were born and Port in an old house on the opposite side of the road later occupied by Aunt Sarah Sanford. These Swarthout families were a little before my time, so I don't remember them. This information is furnished by Ben Roberts. The Roberts family lived in the old homestead many years and it was from this old home that most of the young folks married and went on their different ways. There was Henry who married my youngest sister Evaline. She was the mother of Roy Roberts, Mrs. John Stroyan, Mrs. W. H. Bend and Mrs. Ashley Pirkins of Compton, California. Henry and Eva died comparatively young, both having been gone many years now. Then there was Harry who married the late James Brittan and now lives in Wayne, Nebraska; Emma who married Joseph Agler, who passed from this life some years ago. She lives in Winside, Nebraska. Then came Etta who married a Mr. Litts. She was a very beautiful and vivacious girl, in my estimation the bell of them all. But her married life was short. She moved with her husband to Kansas where she died after a few short years. Then there was Lizzie who married the late Marritt Joodyear who was a dashing young swain in Paw Paw society some 55 years ago. She is still living in San Diego, California. Then came staid old Ben who owns the old homestead. He has always figured quite conspicuously in the affairs of the Baptist church and still sings in the choir. He has also held several offices on the village board. Then George who went many years ago and it has never been my privilege to see him since he was a boy. He lives in Wayne, Nebraska. Then came the baby, the

"BILLY SUNDAY IN ACTION" as he will be seen in the Dixon Prohibition rally next Wednesday afternoon, two-thirty o'clock. The meeting will be held in the First Methodist church with Col. Frank B. Ebbert giving a preliminary message on "The Unfinished Task."

The Dixon Ministers' Association, backed by prominent laymen of the city, have taken advantage of a last-hour change in Rev. Sunday's itinerary for Illinois and have captured this opportunity to present to Lee county and surrounding territory this doughty champion on temperance. Preparation are being made for a capacity-crowd, and admission will be by ticket only up to two fifteen o'clock. There is no charge and tickets are being distributed widely. The unexpected and unconventional action of Governor L. L. Emmerson, in vetoing the legislature's prohibition enforcement repeal bill, has increased interest in the wet-and-dry contest. Wets in the legislature have decided to mobilize for the 1932 elections and the drys are equally resolved to maintain the status quo, "and then some" to quote their leaders.

one loved by every one in Paw Paw, Dell Roberts Hicks of Santa Barbara, California. She is always welcome in Paw Paw and would be more welcome if she would bring George, her husband with her. Besides all these there were some older daughters who were married and remained in Yorkville when the family came here.

The next place was the George Sanford place where Ben and Fanny Roberts now live. Here is where the Sanfords, George and Charley lived many years, and raised a family, none of which ever got very far from the old home. Wilbur and Ben have always farmed in this vicinity and Fanny the second wife of Ben Roberts, lives in the house in which she was born. Next west of the Sanford place is what we knew as the Gummmond place now owned by Stella Case. The old house stood where this house now stands with the driveway on the east and the barn north and east of the house. The family when I knew them were the old grandfathers and mother. The old gentleman was blind in one eye. He told me he lost it by a kernel of wheat hitting it when threshing.

Then there was Milk and his wife Theresa and three children. Edith the oldest daughter never married and still visits Paw Paw once in a while. The second daughter Nettie married our former townsman Ernest Mitchell. He was in the hardware business with his father, S. C. Mitchell some forty years ago and there is many an eavespout still doing business that they put up way back in the olden time. There was one son George Gummmond, who went west into Iowa with the family years ago. I think the mother of these children is still living, but the father, Milt Gummmond has been dead many years. On the vacant lot west of the old barn, in the barn some enterprising company (from Dixon, I am told) installed a full line of flax machinery and farmers for miles around raised flax, brought it here and sold it. It was after going through the various machinery and farmers for miles around raised flax, brought it here and sold it. It was after going through the various machines the two came out clear and clean, was pressed into bales and clean, was hauled to Earlville for shipment. (there was no railroad in Paw Paw then.) This machinery like the old mill was run by tread power, with three large horses abreast. I am under the impression that this enterprise did not prove very profitable to all parties concerned as it was not kept up many years.

Stanley Beale took the spring weather a trifle too seriously on Monday. Coming out of the house he was greeted by a gentle Zephyr from the south land and could not resist its influence. With a running start he made a flying leap over some shrubbery. But a hole awaited his foot on the other side. The foot landed in the hole and Stanley landed on the lot. Result: a strained ankle and a small bone broken. Stanley is walking now, with a cane to help bear his weight.

CAMEL

soon to be announced

IT is expected the judges in the $50,000 Camel Cigarette Prize Contest will be able to render their decision within a short time and that public announcement of the prize winners can be made soon.

At this time the officers and directors of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company wish to thank the nearly a million men and women for their interest in entering this contest. We wish to assure you also, most emphatically, that every single letter received, despite the enormity of the task, is being carefully read and studied.

It is because of the extreme care being taken to insure the absolute fairness of this contest that we ask you to be patient just a little longer.

Entries in the Camel cigarette $50,000 prize contest were received so fast that it was more than a week after the close of the contest before all the mail could be opened. In this pile were more than 500,000 letters awaiting reading by the judges and their staff.

Smoke a fresh cigarette

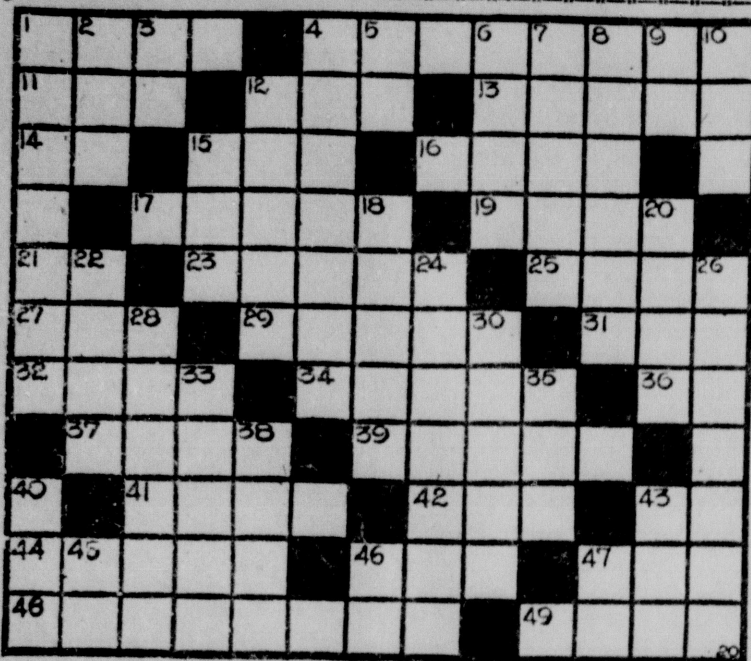

IF you haven't tried Camels since the introduction of the new Humidor Pack, switch to this famous brand for just one day, then quit them, if you can.

An air-sealed wrapping of moisture-proof Cellophane keeps Camels always in factory-fresh condition. It keeps dust and germs out and all the flavor and natural moisture in.

No stale, dried out tobacco in Camels to sting the tongue or burn the throat. All the joys of choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos, in fresh, prime condition.

TOBACCO DIET FOR CHICKENS SHOWS RESULTS

Bigger, Better Broilers Grown At Penn State College

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
State College, Penn., April 20—(AP)—Tobacco fed to baby chickens is making them into bigger and better broilers at the Pennsylvania State College.

This same nicotine diet, in the fully grown old fowl, makes healthier hens and roosters—and, what is more, may emancipate their farm owners from having to keep them so closely watched for fear of a parasitical infection that chickens may pick up when economically foraging for their own food.

A high percentage of nicotine in tobacco is the secret of the effectiveness of the Penn State tobacco diet. The value of tobacco as a vermicidal agent in chicken feed has been recognized for years, but sometimes its use has yielded uncertain results. It is likely to make hens ill, some being more susceptible than others. Suspecting that the harm may come from other tobacco ingredients than nicotine, Dr. J. E. Hunter and Dr. D. E. Haley of the department of agricultural and biological chemistry, have been feeding tobacco rich in nicotine, a diet with less tobacco, but a bigger "kick".

The material is made by grinding the white tobacco plant. The most successful brand is a plant, nicotinea rustica, containing five per cent, or more of nicotine. Tobacco with barely one per cent of nicotine has "decidedly harmful" results on chickens, the details of which the scientists promise to publish later.

Between the low and the high nicotine types they are now seeking the "level" of nicotine content at which the best results may be obtained. A wider range in effective plants may mean increased markets for tobacco farms.

the one living for the other, a devotion that was beautiful to all who knew them—a sincere affection unsurpassed by love of real mother and daughter. Only on Good Friday they went together to God's house to partake of the Holy Communion—just nine days before her death. What a record! What a noble example she has left to those of us who are younger in years but lag far behind her in the Christian graces.

Mrs. Ebinger was a great lover of music—the best music. How much the radio ministered to her in her later years. How she enjoyed the sermons and especially the Easter anthems. Though her eyes were dim her ears were keen and music gave her spirit wings and brought heaven nearer. Her favorite hymns "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me" were sung at her funeral.

Truly "He has given His beloved Sleep" but her gentle, gracious influence will live with us always. Her memory is blessed. We would say with the Psalmist "Oh how great is Thy goodness which Thou hast laid up for them that fear Thee: which Thou hast wrought for them that trust in Thee."

From one who knew and loved her well.

HOW BAND TAX WORKS

Editor Telegraph—The February issue of the Sterling-Rock Falls Chamber of Commerce bulletin has the following article by City Clerk Andrew Huber of Sterling, concerning the municipal band tax, which is of interest to Dixon citizens, who will vote on a band tax proposition at the city election Tuesday:

A proposition to levy a tax not to exceed one mill on all taxable property in the city of Sterling for the purpose of providing a fund for the establishment and maintenance or employment of a municipal band or musical purposes, having been carried at the city election on April 19, 1927, the City Council passed an ordinance establishing the Sterling Municipal band. Mayor A. J. Platt appointed John Wagner, Harold Ward and L. B. Hendricks as members of the Board of Directors, who have supervision of the band.

The band was reorganized from the membership of the old Sterling military band, which had been in existence for about forty years as the Keystone band and the Sixty-first Illinois National Guard band, with J. J. Hitzberger as musical director until May, 1928, when L. M. DeArville was engaged. Since December, 1929, Capt. R. C. Jack, the present director, has had charge of the band, which has grown by this time to a membership of fifty musicians.

The present board of directors are Harry H. Coe, Lloyd H. Bown and U. R. DeVoe, who maintain a keen interest in the welfare of the organization. Since its organization, the band has furnished music for various public celebrations, booster trips and so forth, besides playing a regular series of evening concerts during the summer in Central Park and Sunday afternoon concerts in Lawrence park.

The headquarters and rehearsal rooms are in the Academy of Music building. The band is equipped with a complete set of uniforms and instruments of the latest and best types and, under the supervision of its existence and is a civic organization of which the community can be justly proud. Up to the present time, the Band Board has required only about one-half of the one mill tax levy for the maintenance of the organization.

In summing up it could be modestly said that as an organization supported by public funds there are few investments on which such good returns are realized by the people generally as the Sterling municipal band.

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

Author of "HEART HUNGRY," etc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSEY McBRIDE, 19-year-old New York girl, married JIM WALLACE the day after she meets him at the home of her wealthy cousin, ANN TROWBROOK. Gypsy has been lured by ALAN CROSBY, just returned from a year and a half in Paris studying art. Wallace's dance has broken their engagement to marry a richer man.

Months pass and Brook Phillips is killed in a fall from a horse. Marcia returns to Forest City. She consults Jim about financial affairs and later tells him her marriage to Phillips was a mistake. Jim tries to remain loyal to Gypsy but sees Marcia frequently. Gypsy worries. Marcia asks her to give up Jim. Gypsy refuses. ALAN CROSBY, Jim's cousin, tells of seeing him at luncheon with a girl in a blue dress whom she thought was Marcia. She meets FRANK GIBSON, whom Jim does not like, and accepts his invitation to drive her home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

FOR an instant Gypsy hesitated.

She was aware that Gibson was watching her eagerly. There was a faintly bantering light in his eyes. It was as though he were challenging her. "Are you game to go? Will you take the dare?"

The girl's chin lifted. "Yes," she said, "if there's fresh air—cool, fresh air—to be had on the Somerset road let's go there. I haven't had a breath of it for a week."

While she was still speaking Gibson had swung the car around. The rain drops were coming faster now.

He seemed to be an expert driver. Gypsy watched the ease with which he handled the car. Surely it was a new one. The brown paint glistened and the upholstery looked so fresh.

"It's a new car, isn't it?" she asked.

"Had it two weeks. Bought it as soon as I got back from the coast."

"It's too bad to have it out in a storm like this."

"That's what I got it for. I get my money's worth out of a car. Buy 'em to use 'em. Would you like to drive?"

"Oh, no! I've had a little experience with a lathered up driver but I wouldn't think of trying to drive a lather like this! Jim never lets me touch the roadster."

"That so? You ought to learn. Practice is probably all you need. Any time you feel in the mood I'd be glad to come along as instructor—poor one I'll admit."

Gypsy's smile was a bit nervous. "I'd better not," she said, "unless you want your lovely coupe to be a complete wreck!"

"Well, I'd take my chances. By the way, how is Jim these days? Haven't seen him."

"He's about as usual. Working too hard, I think. He hasn't had a vacation yet and I think he needs it."

Gibson nodded. "That always was Jim. Plugging away! You know the trouble with him is he forgets to enjoy life. What's the use of living if you have to work all the time? That's the way I feel about it."

"Oh, Jim doesn't work all the time. He likes fun."

"Does he? Well, I'm glad to hear that. Say, he made quite a success of a case last spring, didn't he? Girl accused of murder."

"Yes. The Roberts case. It was a wonderful victory."

"I remember now. Read about it in a San Francisco paper. The girl was pretty, wasn't she? What became of her?"

"After she was acquitted she left Forest City and went back to her relatives. She has a better job now and I think she's happy. Of course it will be a long time before she'll get over it."

Gibson nodded. "And how do you like being a lawyer's wife?" he asked, "when the customers are young—and pretty?"

SHE wished he wouldn't look at her that way. She wished he wouldn't say such things. It was more Gibson's tone than the words to which she objected.

But she tried to answer lightly. "Oh, do you think I need to worry?"

"I'll say I don't! Not you."

They were on the Somerset road. It was a narrow ribbon of highway winding a circuitous route on gradually rising ground. The rain poured down steadily. As the coupe swung around the curve the wheels skidded.

It was all over after a breathless instant. Gibson had control of the car. They were moving along smoothly again.

Gypsy, who had seen it all in one terrified moment, drew a deep sigh. "Oh," she said, "for a moment I thought—"

"So did I!" Gibson said sharply. "Well, I won't let that happen again, I assure you!"

They drove silently for a few moments. Gypsy was thinking that if the young man had been watching the road instead of looking at her the near-accident would not have occurred. Probably he knew how to drive all right when he kept his mind on driving.

"Do you notice how much cooler it is out here?" he asked presently. "Much cooler," she agreed. "I wonder if the rain is going to last all evening. The sky doesn't seem any lighter."

"You can't tell about these summer storms. Anyhow, the longer it lasts the more pleased some people will be."

"Our garden needs it," Gypsy began and then she stopped. She wished she had not come for this foolish drive. She should have waited until the storm was over or taken a taxi. Now she was doing the very thing for which she had condemned Jim.

Suddenly she wondered if Frank Gibson had heard gossip about her and Jim. Was that why he had suggested the drive? Was that why he looked at her with that smile that seemed to say more than it should? She had always heard men were worse gossips than women.

"I think," Gypsy said, "that we should be turning back now."

"All right. Just as you say. We'll turn at the next crossroads."

Silence settled between them. Gypsy was thinking about Jim and Marcia. She would talk to Jim after dinner that evening. It must all be settled very quickly. She began to plan what she would say.

Afterward she could never tell exactly what had happened. There was the moment when she saw the other car swerve crazily. Gibson swore. Gypsy felt the coupe reel and screamed.

SHE had never seen the man who was bending over her. He had a round face and wore spectacles. "Do you think," he was saying, "that if I help you you can stand?"

Gypsy moved and a twinge of pain shot through her left foot. She discovered that she was lying on the ground. A man's coat was under her and her clothing was half-drenched. The rain was still falling.

"What—what happened?" she asked in a small voice.

"Another car crashed into yours. How do you feel now?"

"My foot hurts!" Gypsy told him. "The left one." She tried to draw herself up to sitting position but the movement brought a quick exclamation of pain.

"Here—let me take your arm, the man said. "See if we can't make it easier. Are you ready now?"

Gently he lifted her. The left foot ached but Gypsy set her lips and endured it. Her shoulder pained her too. She looked down and saw that her arm was bleeding and that the stranger was saying, "That's nothing," the stranger said, noting her glance, "Just a scratch. Pretty badly injured aren't you? Don't try to stand on that foot! Lean against me."

The girl did as she was told. Her entire body seemed to be a mass of aches and bruises. She was cold. Now she was beginning to remember what had happened.

The brown coupe sprawled in the ditch at the side of the road. A few yards back stood a large touring car.

"Where is Mr. Gibson?" she asked. "Was he hurt?"

The man nodded toward a figure at the other side of the coupe. "Your friend seems to be knocked out," he said. "If we can get you into my car I'll see what I can do."

Cautiously, leaning on the stranger's arm, Gypsy limped toward the touring car. There were questions she wanted to ask but it was all the girl could do to set her teeth and endure the agony.

"Think we'd better get you to a doctor," the man said as he noted the grimace when she settled herself in the rear seat of the touring car. "That foot pains a lot, doesn't it?"

She nodded. "You'd better—go back to Mr. Gibson."

A tall figure in clothing that had once been white came hobbling toward them. The stranger turned.

"Well! You look all right. I thought you'd taken the count!"

Gibson rubbed his head. "What was the damn fool trying to do?" he grumbled. "Kill us? Where's his car?"

The stranger shook his head. "The other fellow didn't even stop," he said. "Must have been drunk judging from the way he was driving. I was behind and saw him weaving from one side of the road to the other. Crash must have come when I was on the other side of the hill. I didn't see it. When I got here the other car was way down the road and yours was in the ditch."

"Roadster, wasn't it?" Gibson asked. "I didn't have a chance. The idiot deliberately ran into us. He burst into vigorous profanity."

"My name's Mason," the other man volunteered. "Fred Mason. I live in Somerset. The young lady seems to have hurt her foot badly and I think she ought to get to a doctor."

"Are you hurt, Mrs. Wallace?" Gibson demanded, for the first time showing interest in the girl.

"T'S my ankle. The left one," she told him. "Otherwise I guess I'm all right."

"You'd better let me take you two into Forest City," Mason suggested. "You'll have to have help with that car anyhow. Looks to me like a bad smash-up."

"Looks like a wreck all right," Gibson agreed. "I'm Frank Gibson, Mr. Mason, and this is Mrs. Wallace. If you could take her back to town and let me off at the nearest farm house it would certainly be a big favor. I can telephone the garage and get someone out here before dark."

Mason nodded. "O. K. with me," he said. The two men climbed into the front seat of the touring car and Mason started the engine. In 10 minutes they were on the road. Gibson walked to the door and knocked. A moment later someone answered. He waved, signaling the others to go on, and entered the house.

Gypsy's foot was throbbing. At every jerk and jolt as the car moved along she clenched her fists and tried to keep from crying out. Tears came into her eyes and she did not bother to brush them away. Sometimes the pain was so great she could not help moaning.

As they neared the city limits Mason turned. "Where do you want me to take you, Mrs. Wallace?"

"I'd like to go to my own home," she said, and gave him the address.

"Don't you think you'd better stop at a doctor's office?"

"No, thank you. All I want is to get home." She leaned back and closed her eyes. If only this would prove to be a nightmare! If only she could open her eyes and find that the hideous afternoon had been a dream!

It was not a dream. The pain in her foot told her that. She looked out and discovered that the rain had stopped. Quak was looking at her. "This place?" Mason asked, slowing the car before a brick dwelling.

"No. The next house. There's a driveway leading in."

A moment later the car halted. Mason got out but before he had reached the porch the front door opened. Jim Wallace appeared.

LEGALITY OF FEMALE JURORS ATTACKED TODAY

Supreme Court Is Hearing Arguments For, Against Law

Springfield, Ill., April 20 (AP)—Judges of the Supreme Court who are charged with the responsibility of passing on the constitutionality of the state law giving women the right to serve on juries today listened to attorneys for both sides in a test case now before the court.

The amendment, adopted as law at the general election last November, is unconstitutional because the General Assembly does not have the power to adopt in law a proposed amendment to become law under the referendum procedure, attorneys attacking the measure told the court. This was the first attack of this nature ever made in the Supreme Court.

The arguments came before the court under a petition for mandamus filed by Charles M. Thompson, of Chicago, against Joseph H. Barrett, Elizabeth Conkey and James J. McKiver, jury commissioners of Cook county. Thompson's attorney asked the court to issue a writ of mandamus commanding the commissioners to prepare the jury list with only the names of male persons listed.

Attorneys for Thompson were Walter F. Dodd and Willard B. Matheny, Chicago. Attorneys for the jury commissioners were Esther A. Dunshee, William L. Bourland, Bertha C. Carlson and representatives of the firm of Sanders, Childs, Robb and Wescott, all of Chicago.

Attorneys for Thompson said: Legislative power can not be delegated. "The constitution vests legislative power in the General Assembly but denies the power to any other person, body or group of persons, as clearly as though the constitution made such denial in express terms."

"The court has held that if a law is complete when it leaves the legislature, its operations may be dependent upon the vote of the electors of a given territory within which the law is to operate," they said. "Clearly the legislature may authorize many things to be done by others which it might add properly to itself. The Supreme Court has said before that the power to enact laws is vested in the legislature, and is a sovereign power, requiring the exercise of judgement and discretion and can not be delegated. The legislature must first determine the policy of law, and having done this, it may delegate the execution of the policy. But the legislature in this case has not determined the policy, nor laid down the general rules of action. Only one issue of policy is involved, and the determination of this issue has been made entirely dependent upon the popular vote."

The delegation of legislative power here attempted finds support neither in the decisions of this state, and it is contrary to court nor in legislative practice of established principles of law in this and other states, they said. The petitioner's attorneys cited eighty cases that prove their points.

The General Assembly has no constitutional power to provide for jury service by women, they said. "The constitution says 'the right of trial by jury as heretofore enjoyed shall remain inviolate.' Does this mean a restriction? If the general guaranty of right to trial by jury stood alone there would be no constitutional objection to a properly enacted state law providing for jury service by women. But it does not stand alone. The word 'men' appears in the constitution of 1870. There are listed nine cases which show that never before has the court thought of a jury composed of other than males."

"In order to support a constitutional power to authorize women's jury service it would be necessary to construe the word 'men' to include a group not contemplated by those who framed the constitution, thus applying a different rule from that in a previous decision, and in addition, to give the word 'men' a meaning different from its ordinary significance, beyond what the context shows it to have had in this instance," they said.

The petitioner cited the recent case before Judge Louis Fitzhenry in southern federal district in which the J. C. Hubinger company of Keokuk, Ia., and nine Springfield men were convicted of violation of liquor laws. There were three women on the jury which convicted these men. Attorneys for Thompson said Fitzhenry's opinion was unnecessary to the decision by that court of the issue before it and was unsupported by the decisions of the Supreme Court.

Attorneys for the commissioners replied to the charges of the petitioner that the amendment does not involve a delegation of legislative power, saying that the law was complete as it came from the hands of the legislature and became a law June 14, 1929, when it was signed by the governor.

"The fact that the operation of this law was postponed until ratified, did not in any way affect the completeness of the law nor was its status affected by the fact that it might never come into operation," they said.

They said that the legislature has power to pass a law, the operation of which depends upon the happening of a contingency or future event. Several cases were cited to support this argument.

Attorneys for the commissioners said specific directions in the constitution for submission of questions to the people are not a limitation upon legislative power except as to such specific cases. "If the people had voted that a law should be passed permitting women to serve on juries, and the legislature had passed this law, would there have been law invalid on the ground that the been any possibility of finding the legislatures were acting only upon the opinion of the people? They said the constitution does not prohibit women from serving on juries, because the constitution does not by implication limit jury service to men. "The word 'men' is used in the constitution only three times. At the very outset the constitution says 'all men are by nature free,' and this has been universally accepted as referring to all persons without limitation to sex. Therefore, neither should there be a limitation on the word 'men' used with reference to trial by jury."

This case, they said requires the application of the well-settled rule that an act of the legislature will not be declared unconstitutional unless it is clear that the legislature has transcended its power.

The General Assembly in 1929 by a vote of 95 to 13 in the house and 41 to 0 in the senate passed the women on juries law. At the referendum, the affirmative vote was 741,642 to 671,959.

TURKEY'S BREAK

On April 20, 1917, the Turkish government officially informed the American embassy that diplomatic relations with the United States had been broken off.

Abram Elkus, the American ambassador, was ill with typhus fever at the time, and was compelled to remain at Constantinople for some weeks afterward. His staff remained with him.

Three days later the American State Department gave passports to Abdul Hak Hussein Bey, first secretary and charge d'affaires of the embassy, and other members of the staff. The Turkish ambassador A. Rustem Bey, was recalled by the government early in the war on account of injudicious criticisms of the president.

Robert College and Bible House and its branches were closed, and Americans left the Turkish capital.

At Dinner Tables—In School Rooms—At Bridge Parties—People Are Talking About Lovable, Kissable, Spankable "Skippy."

RAVES FROM THE CRITICS—

A gem of a picture—Herald-Examiner. For all kiddies between 6 and 60—American. One swell picture—oozing with humanness—News. With all my heart I say, see it—Tribune. Keep your handkerchief in your pocket—Post. A picture that will delight everyone—Times.

The Thing To Do Today Is To See "SKIPPY."

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY
WILL ROGERS in "A CONNECTICUT YANKEE."
